

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Chakastaypasin Band Headwoman Florence Sanderson (facing camera) speaks with Ellise Burns, the James Smith Cree Nation Board Member on the East Central First Nations Education Partnership's Board of Directors.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Pauline McKay (sitting), the Superintendent of Education speaks with (left) Dave Marion and former Bernard Constant Community School Grade 12 student Autumn Marion.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Elder Peter Sanderson of the East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Pauline McKay, the Partnership's Superintendent of Education, review the last issue of the Partnership's newsletter.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Chakastaypasin Band Headman Barry Sanderson talks to Holly Sanderson, a Bernard Constant Community School Educational Assistant, who temporarily staffed a booth at the Open House held in the gymnasium of Bernard Constant Community School (BCCS).

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Monty Verhulst, the East Central First Nations Education Partnership's Project Manager temporarily fills in at the Communications and Consultation Booth at the Open House held on February 8, 2023.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Curtis Rudnicki, the Partnership's Mathematics and Numeracy and Practical Applied Arts Consultant (facing camera) talks with the Partnership's Elder Peter Sanderson regarding his work activities.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Before the start of the Open House, David Bighead, the Partnership's Manager of Human Resources (left) and Randy Constant, the Education Director, patiently wait for community members to begin arriving at the event.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Joanne Berg (left) the Partnership's Learning Support Consultant and Bernard Constant Community School Liaison Worker with an unidentified community member at the Open House on February 8, 2023.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

The James Smith Health Center had a booth at the Open House and Mike Marion (sitting) the Health Director and some staff attended to the event and provided attendees with information on the activities of the health staff.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Ellise Burns (left), the James Smith Cree Nation representative on the East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Camellia Sanderson, the Chakastaypasin Band representative on the East Central First Nations Education Partnership attended the event.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

Director of Education for the East Central First Nations Education Partnership, Randy Constant, speaks to James Smith Cree Nation Health Center Nurse Supervisor Rey Lindain at the Open House.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

The Partnership's Wellness Consultant Yaa Nyamekye speaks to Susie Sanderson, a community member at the Open House on Feb. 8, 2023, in the community of James Smith Cree Nation.

Partnership's Open House on Feb. 8, 2023 well attended.

The East Central First Nations Education Partnership and Bernard Constant Community School conducted an Open House in the community of James Smith Cree Nation on February 8, 2023, with about 100 community residents attending.

The Partnership's Finance Manager, Faye Head, who is always busy, managed to attend the Open House and perform work at the same time.

